

Dear Customers,

We would like to make you aware of a new guideline introduced and effective of December 14th 2014.

All premises serving food for retail must outline whether or not the dishes or items contain any of the 14 known allergens.

For example: In the past we were able to say “may contain nuts” with this new guideline, if it is suspected that the production may handle nut products we now have to say “contains nuts” leaving no room for doubt or contamination.

By this regard we would like to inform you that many of our dishes do contain traces or elements of these allergens and should you have a specific need please make staff aware.

We appreciate that this does greatly reduce the amount of choice for those with allergies, but only those with the allergy know best how to handle it. So please be patient with us while we will try our best to cater for your needs.

Many thanks

Tippling Philosopher